Triumph for the Radicals?

An Entire Change of Spain's Cuban Policy Likely to Be the Result.

All true-hearted Americans are longing to see Cota free and they will rejoice to hear of Senor Sagasta's being made premier of coain.

He is said to be a humane man, with the people's interest at heart, and would m robably put a stop to the atrocities in Cuba Mayer & Pettit would rejoke mightily to see the day of Cela's independenceec the fing of freedom float over the "Pearl of the Antilles." The according people will always tale the world. Some bedizzened speck of mortality may think, forsooth, that he rules the world, because he happens to be "toru in the purple," but he must some or later low to the will of the people.

He Will Conduct the Strikers' Fight in West Virginia.

TO DEFY THE INJUNCTIONS

Says He in Common With All Other American Citizens Has the Right of Free Speech and That No Court Can Take That Constitutional Right Away.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 10. - The monotony that has characterized the miners' strike so farpromises to be broken at once. President Gempers, of the American Federa tion of Luber, is here today in conference with President Ratchford and will leave tonigut for West Virginia, where he will become field marshal for the organizers

Under his leadership they will speak and act in dellance of the injunctions is-sued against. "If they do," said a prominent official of the miners today, "I pre-dict that they will be arrested and the question will be fought out in the courts." Mr. Gompers said to your correspondent I shall endeavor to show the miners of West Virginia that the interests of all coal diggers are mutual, and it is their duty

new to suspend labor,"

Asked about the injunctions against bim he said that he feared nothing from them. He believed that they were secured for a 'scure" by the operators. He felt sure miners would win the strike "Their success," said he, "is the only solution of the mining problem. Miners' wages had been going down to ver and lower each year until the limit had been reached. The operators might as well accept the inevitable and accept the identican wage scale offered." Asked what he would do if arrested be said: "I do not expect to be arrested I believe, with the governor of West Vir ginia, that I have the right of free speech of peaceable assemblage on the highways and no court has the power to take that right away from me. No; I do not an ticipate that anyone will try to deprive me of these rights of an American citi

Will the Death of Canovas Mean Body of Spain's Dead Premier Taken From Santa Agueda.

SAGASTA HIS PROBABLE SUCCESSOR | THE QUEEN REGENT'S SORROW

Her Letter of Condolence to Senora Canovas-Golli to Be Tried Under the Military Code-Numerous Arrests Probable-The Intense Grief of the Bereaved Wife.

Madrid, Aug. 10.-The body of the prime minister was placed on a train at Santa Agueda tonight and is to arrive in this city at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning The coffin inclosing the remains was cov ered with a large number of wreaths.

The body was removed from the baths, where the assassination took place, to the railway station on a car drawn by four borses. It was escerted by a detachment of chasseurs, who were headed by the Duke de Sotomayor, the chief major domo of the ceart, who represented the Queen Reprent. Senora Canovas accompanies her bushand's body to Madrid.

Shortly after the death of the prime minister, the Queen Regent wrote a letter to Senora Canovas. In which, after affectionately sympathizing with her in her Senor Castillar, the Republican leader, was interviewed on the political situation odny. Referring to a report that he might be summoned to form a cabinet, he declared that he would only accept the post of prime minister in a Republican government. He said he was of the opinion that he could better serve his country outside of the government, and added that he would recommend Senor Sa gasta, the Liberal leader, for the post if he could be assured of the support of the Conservatives.

Senora Canovas preserved the unnatural calm that marked her conduct immediately after the killing of her husband until to day. She refused to take food or rest, and watched beside the body for two nights. She directed all the arrangeme for the removal of the body to Madrid and discussed the details of the journey Tonight, however, when she started to follow the coffin to the railway station she broke down and lost control of herself, weeping bitterly. She was attended by physicians, but her tears afforded her as much reflef as their ministrations.

AWAITING NEWS FROM SPAIN.

State Department Has Received No Further Official Advices.

At the State Department it was said yes arday that no further information concern ing the assassination of Senor Canovas had been received, although an acknowledg ment of the message of sympathy cabled yesterday by instruction of the President is expected at any time,
The officials profess to know nothing further than newspaper reports concerning the political disorder in Spain, but guard edly admit that these reports must be be-lieved until official reports discredit them. It will not be surprising if Minimer Taylor, within a very brief time, sends a long cipher dispatch, describing as accurately as possible the situation in Spain and its relation to this country and It is thought that Minister Taylor will not wait for Gen. Woodford, his suc essor, to do this, for Mr. Taylor, being or the ground at the present time, is thoroughly familiar with the condition Additional instructions to Gen. Woodford by the President will largely depend upon the information expected from Min ister Taylor. It was said at the State Department that no dispatch had been received from Consul General Lee, describ ing the reception of the news of the death of Senor Canovas, and that such a essage is expected was not denied. It is possible that Gen. Lee may be heard today, but it is not at all probable that the State Department will make public the information he will send. Secretary Sherman is very much disturbed over the Spanish situation, but declined yesterday to discuss it.

WOODFORD IN NO HURRY.

Our New Minister Delaying His

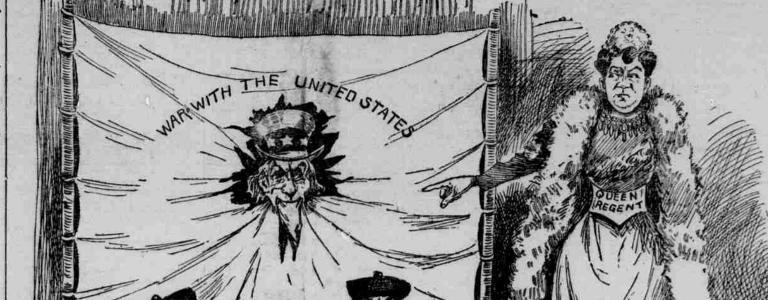

Journey to Madrid. It is anofficially stated by certain officers pected with the State Department that Gen. Woodford, our new minister to Spain. will not be in any haste to reach Madrid It is somewhat difficult at this distance to oughly understand the temper of the Spanish people in connection with the assassination of the prime minister, and it is believed to be the part of wisdom for Minister Taylor to remain at Madrid until the excitement has died down and the indignation of the people has been softened lapse of time.

Should Minister Woodford reach Madrid e could do nothing until he had been officially received and properly accredited as the representative in Spain of the United States

It would not be good form in this Government to press forward its new minis ter during the period of mourning for the death of Canovas. It is probable that the Queen Regent and her court will return at once from San Sebastian to the capital, owing to the cabinet crisis. Minister Wood-ford, will, therefore, it is said, await the turn of the Queen and the quieting of the pouplar pulse before presenting his credenials and relieving Hannis Taylor. Meanwhile, Gen. Woodford will travel by easy stages from London through France and reach Madrid at a later day than originally intended.

New York Bryan Democrats Organize a State Committee.

REASONS FOR THE ACTION

It Is for the l'arpose of Compelling the Regular Organization to Reaffirm the Chicago Platform and Name a Candidate in Full Sympathy With It.

New York, Aug. 10 .- It is reported that the Bryan Democrats of the State have organized an judependent State commit tec, and this committee will meet fororgan ization at the Empire Hotel, Syracuse, on Thursday next.

This step was determined upon on July S at a conference presided over by Hon. O. L. Snyder, of Buffalo. Democrats from all over the State were at the conference, which was held at the Gerlach, this city and it was decided to organize in every assembly district of the State. It was decided to print enrollment blanks in other languages than English, to make assembly district organizations, and to so central-ize the followers of Bryan that the regular State committee would be compelled to reaffirm the Chicago platform and to name a candidate for the chief judgeship of the court of appeals committed to all the doctrines of that instrument.

Since the Gerlach meeting fifty delegates have been chosen to the State com-

The State committee will be formally organized on Thursday. The organization, which is to be known as the Loyal Den ocratic League, has no desire to go further than force the Hill-Murphy ma chine to unequivocal reaffirmation of the Chicago platform. An address to be sent to each member of the regular State committee will call upon the State committee to indorse Bryan or take the consequences of a revelt and a second ticket for the court of appeals judgeship. One of the delegates today gave a reporter a copy of a resolution which will be offered. It says in part: "Resolved, That we are in full and hearty accord with the Democratic State and national platforms of 1896, and that we hereby strenuously urge the State committee to reaffirm these platforms, and earnestly request said committee to nomnate an able and capable candidate for chief justice of the court of appeals, who fully indorses the principles therein enun erated, and who heartily supported the candidates nominated thereon in 1896."

LONDON PAPERS ON SHERMAN. Say His Actions Tend to Support Belief in His Senility. London, Aug. 10 .- Some of the papers taken by Secretary of State Sherman and print long specials, quoting American com nents on the statements made by him in the interview had with him on the death of Senor Canovas, concurrently alluding to his recent anti-British outbursts. The Daily News, in an editorial on the subject, says: "Current events show that we did not miscalculate in leaving the Secretary to the justice of his own countrymen. The symptoms in his case certainly tend to support a belief in his senility. "This view is the most charitable in the circumstances. His dispatch on the Bering Sea matter, when the question was in course of peaceful settlement, can only is a blank on the whole subject."

Bessie Gladmon's Assailant Is Captured Near Georgetown.

CLAIMS HE MEANT NO HARM

Charge of Simple Assault Entered Against Him, But This May Be Changed to Criminal Assault Today-Police of the Fourth Precinct Elated Over the Catch.

William Lucas, the fifty-year-old white man Who attempted to criminally assault Bessie Gladmon, the eight-year-old daughter of J. H. Gladmon, No. 938 H street southwest, was arrested yesterday morning by Policeman McGill Grove, of the Seventh precipct, on the Canal road, near Green Springs.

A simple charge of assault was entered on the Fourth precinct blotter opposite the name of Lucas, but the evidence in the case will be submitted to the district attorney this morning, and if it should appear that there is a sufficiency of facts to hold him for attempted criminal assault the latter charge will be substitut-

As was supposed, soon after his flight Lucas sought his old baunts in Georgetown. He was formerly a canal man and also had relatives living in Georgetown. Lucas first went to the house of his cousin on G street, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets, and here spent the night. About daylight he left the house and started out the canal road. Several persons recognized Lucas, and the police were notified of his whereabouts. Patrolman Grove started out after bim, white Sergeant Daley and Patrolman Carlin, of the Fourth precinct, were not far behind. When Grove came up with Lucas, the latter had just come from a bar-room, where he had purchased a bottle

Lucas looked over the field, and resing a party of men up the road who could easily intercept him, had he tried to escape, quietly surrendered. He showed no inclination to try to escape on the way to the Seventh precinct station. The Fourth precinct officers were notified, and Patrolman Rinck went over to George own and carried the prisoner back in the

Lucas was very talkative when put in cell, but would not admit that he had attempted a criminal assault. He said

The Fourth presinct police are much clated over the capture, but are chagrined that they could not keep the story from the papers, as they sought to do, until the man had been apprehended.

Gladmon caught him.

The alleged crime for which Lucas was arrested was committed Monday night. J. M. Gladmon, who lives at No. 931 H street southwest, had as his next-door neighbor William Lucas, a fifty-y-ar-old laborer. Lucas had trouble with his wife and left his position with the Independent Ice Company because of his wife's inits. About 7:30 o'clock Lucas called Bessie, the pretty little eight-year-old daughter of Mr. Gindmon, and

He was on the door step and held the girl in such a suspicious man ner that Mrs. Gladmon, looking out of the window, immediately realized the state of affairs. She screamed and frightened his from his purpose. He went into the house and locked the door.

Mr. Gladmon returned soon after, and when told of the occurrence knocked Lucas down, and would have hit him with a paling wrenched from the fence had not Mrs. Gladmon interfered. Lucas then made off, but was captured, as related

SWEPT BY WIND AND RAIN

A Furious Forty-Minute Storm of Thunder and Lightning.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE BONE

The City Flooded by a Phenomenal Rainfall-Lightning Strikes Trees and Paralyzes Electric Lights and Car Lines-Fire Alarm Boxes Burned Ont.

The furious storm which swept over the city last night at a harricane velocity was remarkable both for its spectacular and noisy features and for its material effects. It reminded one very much of the September cyclone of a year ago, which also came up in the night and rocked the city from turret to foundation. Last night's Form was, however, the most picturesque electrical exhibition of several years. Fuller reports may above considerable damage to have been done by the storm It begon to gather in the west and north-west about dark, after which the sheet lightning came nearer and nearer, the artiflery became louder and louder, until about $15, when the rolling, flashing wars came over the Polomac and burst upon the city.

It would be easy to exhaust the terminology of sunshine, rain, thunder and light-ning storms on this particular terror, which literally and figuratively ratifed the city from river to boundary. Jove evidently got up on his hind legs for a continuous performance, and the way he fired blazing bolts with that red right hand of his was quite enough to make people ponder on the hereafter. The old man unlimbered none but his thirteen inch guns and he trained them all on Washington. While he made what is known as a hot time for the old town, it was slightly out of range. He nit Brightwood and Alexandria, but Washington escaped with a few burns and bruises. Otherwise the storm was sublime and beautiful, but not dangerous. From 8:10 p. m. until 8:50 p. m. there was almost an incessant roas of thunder and thunderous echoes, while ten twelve twenty times a minute magnificent flushes lighted up the whole round, rolling, rattling world, And the wind and rain; they came together Jove did not merely weep, as the veather reporters say. He just gushed. He turned on every hose on the premises The wind, although loaded up to the roof with millions of tons of water, went through the streets from west to east like a Louse aftre, although that metaphor is slightly crossed, as they said about the telephone wires. Usually this kind of rain is described as sheets of water. It was oore like crazy quits or army blankets. At the Weather Bureau the minfall wasce ported as 1.87 inches from 8:10 p. m. to 8.50 p. m. This was not exactly cloud-burst measure, but it gives no idea of the accumulations of this rain water on the streets. The total fall was 1.90, the greatest recorded for forty minutes in this vicinity. The water driven by the gale was banked up constantly to the east. For five minutes or more 6km Echo would have been green with jealousy of the Venetian splendor of the streets of Washington. The asphalt for squares was at all times two inches and at other times two to four inches under water, and on Pennsylvania avenue the cable are played the gondola to perfection.

board the cars any place in the city one experienced the sensation of a sea voyage. The wind carried away nearly all of the were two or three instances on Pennsylvania avenue. The ravage in this respect was marked by many prostrate trees in

The floods on the streets, whipped up by the wind, gathered immense piles of sand and let them go into the side streets orth and south. At several places the sidewalks were ruined, and especially in the northeast, where the said and clay washed away from the pavements, and Left the bricks to cling to each other. A good example of this effect of the storm was noted at the northwest corner of Fourteenth and F streets, where the underndning was complete at the new building in course of construction there. At the Baltinore and Potomon denot the waters were raised four and five inches deep, and in reneral all of the city south of the Avenue, to which the fleeds gravitated. The lower and middle portions of the Smithsonian and Agricultural grounds were sheets of water, like the overflow of rivers, in which the forests tell the depth of the flood. A two-inch fainfall in less than a half nour means, of course, the flooding of cellars. The reverse was true at Willard's Hotel, where one of the leader pipes being choked, the water flooded the office floor and injured the ceiling. A big force of ands were, however, put to work, so that there would be no annoyance to the guests. At the telegraph companies' headquarters they spoke of the storm as local, as shown by the fact that the only breaking or axing of wires was in this vicinity. Fostal Telegraph people said that north and west the lines were all right, but that there was a break south, possibly between ere and Alexandria. At the Western Union Company's offices they said that the wires, except here and there in the city, were in good working order, the slight delay being caused by local breaks. While the storm was very entertaining while it lasted, it was as short and sharp as some of its lightning peals. In less than built an bour after the first great gon, the sound of the strife was far off in the East, where the sheet lightning flashed for an bour or more, and every now and then back the sallen roar of a distant peal of the retreating thunder. These thunder showers are good things. They clear up the physical atmosphere. All the physicians say thit when a city is washed out and hong up to dry, as was Washington last night, there will be very little danger of typhoid fever. It clears purface and it flushes out naturally

The drop in temperature during the storm was twenty degrees, making the night very sweet and slumberous. A summary of the storm's damage 'm Washington and suborbs follows:

The house of Mr. George Jones, Bright-wood, was struck and fired by the light-Engine 13 responded promptly, and the flames were soon extinguished. ighning struck the roof, entered a tedroom and thence to the parlor, in which Mrs. Jones was walking to and fro with the Laby.
